

Fife Ness peninsula – the Mesolithic site is adjacent to the grey-roofed building in the right foreground, with the Danes' Dyke running to the north (Fife Council).

North Scotstarvit, Fife – the excavations of the medieval rural settlement on the pipeline route (Fife Council).

Edenwood, Fife – the south ditch of the Roman temporary camp on the pipeline route, visible in the pipeline excavation and as a crop mark (Fife Council).
