Pottery

Derek Hall and George Haggarty would like to thank the following people for their help and willingness to engage in meaningful dialogue regarding this assemblage: Mark Hall (Perth Museum and Art Gallery), Charlie Murray (formerly of Aberdeen Museum and Art Gallery, now Murray Archaeological Services), Lisbeth Thoms (formerly of Dundee Art Galleries and Museums, now Newgrange Heritage Services), the late Alan Vince, the late John Hurst, the late Sarah Jennings, Lyn Blackmore (MOLA), Duncan Brown (English Heritage), Jane Young, David Bowler (formerly SUAT Ltd, now Alder Archaeology) and Russel Coleman (Headland Archaeology Ltd). Olwyn Owen of Historic Scotland has been especially supportive. The preparation of the original report was entirely funded by Historic Scotland.

Ceramic Building Material

John Di Folco would like to acknowledge with gratitude the help and advice given at various stages in the preparation of this report by John Cherry and Elizabeth Eames of the Department of Medieval and Later Antiquities, British Museum; Mr W M Jack, ARIBA and Mr R Johnston, formerly lecturer in Geology, St Andrews University. Derek Hall would like to thank George Haggarty, Beverley Nenck and Simon Chenery for useful discussions on the manufacture and distribution of medieval floor and roof tile in Scotland.

Pewter token

J D Bateson acknowledges his gratitude to the late Professor L Alcock and Dr D Houston for helpful comments.

Devotional objects

The late Brian Spencer thanked Dr G Lloyd-Morgan for referring him to the reference to Van Buchem and to Vanessa Harding for the reference to the London cargo list of 1384. He also expressed his thanks to Dr J Collis, Mrs A R Easson, N Griffiths, Dr S Margeson, G Marsh, M Rhodes and Dr P Robinson.

Funding

The authors and editors gratefully acknowledge the support of Historic Scotland over the many years this fascicule was in preparation. The publication was also supported by Perth and Kinross Heritage Trust, The Guildry Incorporation of Perth, The Strathmartine Trust, Perth Museum and Art Gallery, and J K Cairncross Charitable Trust.

The illustrations of the devotional items by Marion O'Neil were funded by the Hunter Archaeological Trust.

Pottery, ceramic building material and clay pipes

The pottery was drawn by Dave Munro. All diagrams in the pottery thin section report and photographs of the thin sections were provided by the late Alan Vince. Pottery photographs are by Derek Hall. Clay pipes were drawn by Colin Martin. Illus 113 (anthropomorphic roof finial) is reproduced by courtesy of Perth Museum and Art Gallery with thanks to Mark Hall and Paul Adair.

Metalwork

Illus 156 was drawn by Marion O'Neil. Illus 116–124 are by Dave Munro, with additional items (Cat Nos 1, 2, 4, 6, 7, 11, 20, 24, 29, 31, 40, 43, 67, 111 and 112) by Tamlin Barton. Illus 125–151, 153, 154 and 155 are by Tamlin Barton.

Illus 124, 152, 157 and 158 are reproduced by permission of Perth Museum and Art Gallery.

Wood

Original wood drawings (Illus 159–214) were by Alice Curteis and were digitised by Dave Munro. Colin Martin drew the boat timbers (Illus 215–6).

Editing

The project was managed by Derek Hall, who also prepared the index. Lisbeth Thoms in her role as TAFAC editor copy-edited and oversaw the process.

Catherine Smith and David Perry, who were responsible for internal edits, would particularly like to thank David Bowler and all past and present colleagues at Alder Archaeology and SUAT Ltd for their support and willingness to share knowledge of a wide range of topics over the years. Thanks are also due to the staff of Perth Museum and Art Gallery and RCAHMS for access to objects and records and for their assistance in untangling knotty cataloguing problems. We would also like to thank all the authors and illustrators who have contributed to this series for their patience and good humour and we hope that in this volume we have succeeded in reflecting the value and scope of several decades of hard work.
