Textiles

The scope and scale of the finds of textiles from Perth High Street by far exceeded the most optimistic expectations and the three main authors have been fortunate that, in the course of preparing this report, so many people have readily given help and advice. To all of these they offer their thanks with gratitude.

The report was begun while Dr Bennett was on the staff of the then National Museum of Antiquities of Scotland (now National Museums Scotland) and she wishes to acknowledge the contribution of her colleagues there, particularly Helen Dalrymple and Dr Jim Tait of the Research Laboratory, Charles Burnett, Dr David Caldwell, and Doreen Moyes who prepared the photographic plates of the textiles. The conservation of the examples of laxis was the work of M Findlay and K Hunter (PHSAE). Apart from their main reports, Dr Michael Ryder and Professor M C Whiting also gave help on special points, as did Dr Caldwell.

In addition, the following specialists provided opinions and information: C L Curle; E Crowfoot; Dr Leonie von Wilckens of the Germanisches Nationalmuseum; Audrey Henshall; Dr Marta Hoffmann; Frances Pritchard, K Staniland and Michael Rhodes of the Museum of London; June Swann of Northampton Museums; Naomi Tarrant of the then Royal Scottish Museum (now National Museums Scotland); Santina Levey and colleagues in the Department of Textiles and Dress, Victoria and Albert Museum; Sandra Vons-Comis; Penelope Walton Rogers, Dr Anna Muthesius and Thea Gabra-Sanders. Dr Dransart began to work on the textile report in 1992. In addition to the above named people (and in particular, Thea Gabra-Sanders), she wishes to thank Prof Janet Burton, Mark Hall, Uto Hogerzeil, Sylvia Hogerzeil-Kien, Dr William Marx and Prof Richard Oram. She is also indebted to Derek Hall, Catherine Smith, David Perry and Lisbeth M Thoms for their constant support and vigilance during the editorial process. Responsibility for any errors or infelicities, however, remains with the main authors of this fascicule.

Special appreciation is due to Rose Smith, administrator to PHSAE, without whose unfailing efficiency and support the initial work could not have been completed, and to the staff of Perth Museum and Art Gallery. Without their help and, in particular, that of Michael King, the updating and revision of this fascicule would have been impossible. Similar sentiments should also be expressed about the role of Olwyn Owen of Historic Scotland. It is in no small measure due to her tactful help and enthusiastic support that it has been finally possible to update and complete this fascicule.

Leather

Many people have helped with the leather report over the last 35 years. Particular thanks are due to June Swann, formerly Keeper of the Shoe Collection at Northampton Museum, and the late John Thornton, of Northampton College of Technology, for their advice and guidance. Alison Reid, Mike King and Mark Hall at Perth Museum were very patient in allowing access to the leather at various times. Conservation was carried out at the laboratories of the National Museum of Antiquities (now National Museums Scotland). Additional conservation was carried out at Dundee Museum (Camperdown House). Others who provided assistance include Steve Connelly at Perth Archives, Dr Christiane Schnack, who sent copies of her reports on leather from Schleswig, Bremen and Konstanz; the staff of the British Museum, Museum of London and the York Archaeological Trust; David Ogston, minister of St John's Kirk; Ian Carlisle; David Caldwell; The Antiquaries Library, London; Rose Smith, Olwyn Owen, Derek Hall; Catherine Smith, David Perry and Lisbeth Thoms. Information on bagpipes was provided by Mr Duncan McDiarmid, Castle Menzies Farm, Aberfeldy.

The excavation and the publication

For information regarding the excavation and its history, readers are referred to the Acknowledgements section of Fascicule 1, where we extend grateful thanks to all those who contributed to the PHSAE project from inception to publication.

The post-excavation process was managed by Derek Hall from 2004 onwards. Lisbeth Thoms in her role as TAFAC editor copy-edited and oversaw the process. This fascicule was collated and prepared for publication by Catherine Smith and David Perry who gratefully acknowledge the help of their colleagues at Alder Archaeology and at SUAT Ltd, in particular David Bowler.

Illustration credits

The figures in the textile report were drawn by Dr Helen Bennett (Illus 2, 6–14); Sylvia Mackiewicz (Illus 15, 52, 56–7, 59–60, 62, 65, 67, 71); Dr P Z Dransart (Illus 23, 45–6, 85, 88–9, 93); Susan Mitford (Illus 91, 95); Alice Curteis (Illus 87); Roger Dennis (90) and were redrawn and digitised by David Munro and Tamlin Barton. Tamlin Barton digitised the plates, bar charts and lists in the text.

Leather illustrations from Illus 102 onwards were drawn by Clare Thomas with corrections and
